FOUNDING EDITION

HEAL YOUR SOUL. REVIVE YOUR SENSES.

Reconnect with your body through a different way of experiencing wellness—and Vietnam.

A different way to experience wellness —and Vietnam

ASCENSION is a two-week living programme in Da Nang:
Vietnamese wellness knowledge brought into conversation with contemporary movement, breath, sound, creativity, food and cultural discovery.

Not a retreat with a timetable. Practice, kitchen and studio sit inside one continuous experience, shared by an intimate international cohort and, in selected moments, by Da Nang itself.

FIG. 02 - STRUCTURE AND PLACE
ASCENSION DA NANG 2027

02 - PRINCIPLE

The body is not a collection of parts

Fascia, breath, posture, movement, attention and touch behave as one connected system. Change the tension in one place and the whole structure reorganises around it.

The programme works from that premise: manual practice, movement and rest are sequenced across the two weeks so they reinforce each other rather than compete.

ASCENSION is informed by the history of structural integration and by continuing fascial inquiry. It is independent, and claims no affiliation with, or endorsement by, any named school or practitioner lineage.

03 — PRACTICE

One body. Everything connected.

The foundation of ASCENSION is Diện Chẩn: a needle-free Vietnamese system that begins at reflex points on the face and follows the body wherever attention is needed. No universal sequence — every session is adapted to the person.

01

Reflexology and acupressure

02

Therapeutic heat and specialized tools

03

Assisted stretching and mobility

04

Full-body manual work

05

Hands. Feet. Head. Limbs. Back. No needles.

CONFIRMED PRACTITIONER · DAILY DIỆN CHẨN

Y sĩ Huỳnh Bảo Loan — Da Nang

Y sĩ, physician-level credential in Vietnam. Licensed Traditional Medicine Practitioner; Licensed Acupressure & Massage Therapist; Licensed Healthcare Practitioner.

Presented as a traditional wellness and educational experience. Individual responses vary; participation does not replace medical diagnosis or treatment.

Movement as listening

Mornings begin outside. Slow movement, mobility, breath and balance, drawing on Southeast Asian martial-arts principles and a Qigong-like softness of attention.

Practice at the speed the body can actually hear.

Additional international myofascial and mobility facilitators may participate, subject to programme fit and travel support. Facilitator participation is conditional and not yet confirmed.

Six ways into the present

Six pathways run through the fourteen days, supported by Diện Chẩn as the foundation. Participants move between them daily rather than choosing a track — and each is a place where a partner can meaningfully sit.

FIG. 05 - SENSORY SYSTEM

An intimate cohort. A wider cultural platform.

Depth is deliberately small. Visibility is not. A partner gains intimacy with a cohort, and reach through the layers around it.

NOTE ON FIGURES

All figures beyond the founding cohort are potential or projected reach. They are not guaranteed impressions and not a booked audience.

Why Da Nang. Why now.

A coastline and a mountain range twenty minutes apart. A living Vietnamese wellness culture that was never packaged for export. A young creative city with an international airport, and Hội An just south of it.

Brands become part of the experience

Six proposed integrations. Each is a use rather than a placement: the product is in someone's hands at the moment it is genuinely wanted.

01 Wearable technology

Supporting participant reflection across the fourteen days.

02 Hydration rituals

Functional beverage moments built into the daily rhythm.

03 Listening environments

Immersive sound as a room the cohort enters, not a playlist.

04 Body care in practice

Products used within appropriate programming, by practitioners.

05 Creative materials

Paper, pigment and film placed directly in participants' hands.

06 Travel and hospitality

Integrated into the arrival and guest journey.

From product to cultural story

What a partner leaves with is not an activation. It is a documented cultural moment, edited to publication standard and usable long after the edition closes.

------------------	---

Travel and airlines	Named partner on the arrival journey into Da Nang.
----------------------------	--

Hospitality	Host venue for residency, public programming or the shared table.
--------------------	---

Audio and music	Sound rooms, listening sessions and the RESONATE pathway.
------------------------	---

Body care	Used by practitioners within restorative sessions.
------------------	--

Nutrition	Built into shared tables and morning rituals with local cooks.
------------------	--

Functional beverages	Hydration ritual after movement and manual practice.
-----------------------------	--

Creative materials	Paper, pigment and film in participants' hands during CREATE.
---------------------------	---

Fashion and textiles	Movement and warm-climate wear worn across the edition.
-----------------------------	---

Mobility and transport	Moving the cohort between coast, city, mountains and Hội An.
-------------------------------	--

Categories are open. No partner is confirmed, and no example above represents an existing agreement.

What partners receive

Scope is written per partner. Nothing below is automatic — each line is agreed before the edition opens.

01 Category exclusivity where agreed

04 Selected public touchpoints

07 Agreed content usage rights

10 Post-edition documentation and reporting

02 Named experience integration

05 Approved recognition across
ASCENSION and MODUS

08 Editorial storytelling

11 First consideration for future editions

03 Direct cohort engagement

06 Professional photography and short-form video

09 Hospitality and guest access where appropriate

Deliverables are scoped to the tier and category agreed with each partner.

Partnership pathways

Flexible starting ranges in US dollars. Scope, exclusivity, content rights and deliverables are tailored to category and objectives.
